Are you interested in becoming a Thinking School?

Then speak to Thinking Schools South Africa about whole staff workshops tailor-made for you to implement global best practice in your own context. Contact Jane McIntyre admin@thinkingschools.org.za or 081 075 4254 for your personalized proposal.

Only Thinking Schools South Africa (TSSA) offers:

1. The practical classroom experience of TSSA’s Community of Practice of thousands of teachers across South Africa.
2. Trainers who are Teachers too, with the street credibility of having implemented Thinking School Strategies in the South African (CAPS/IEB/International Schools) context themselves.
3. Whole Staff workshops in your school AND on-going termly Network support for your Drive Team to continue to deepen practical implementation.
   (all SACE accredited)

TSSA Schools report 87% of Teacher Planning increasing in depth and breadth for problem-solving and thinking skills, and 83% of classrooms experiencing greatly improved teaching and learning.

Because we are a non-profit organisation, we re-invest every cent we make back into supporting South African Communities of Practice from Houghton to Khayelitsha. We are part of the Global Thinking Schools movement independently accredited by Exeter University.

Dr Anita Worrall (Chairperson); Dr Louis Benjamin; Lebogang Montjane; Dr Sonja Vandeleur; Mrs Jane McIntyre (CEO); Dr Craig Blewett

“The reason I was drawn to TSSA is this novel idea that in matters social as well as educational, the best tool at our disposal as human beings is to think our way out of problems; far too much emphasis in South African education is on coverage of content and too little on the underlying thinking skills crucial for understanding complex scholarly and social problems” - Professor Jonathan Jansen, TSSA Patron

“TSSA’s work is critical in building the capacity of teachers to foster thinking skills across the curriculum” - Mary Metcalfe